AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

published by The Tribune at Grande Prairie, Alberta. The Tribune's aim is to be thoroughly "cover" the local news field with fairness to all sections and to give the people of the Peace River Country and help make known this "Northern Empire" of Canada. All news is printed without intentional distortion. The paper's opinions are expressed only in its editorial columns.

Letters for publication are welcomed. A person may sign his name and his correspondent must also sign their proper names, not necessarily for publication, but the editor reserves the right to publish or withhold any letter.

The Tribune does not imply agreement with any opinions contained therein.

THE NEW YEAR

Only four more days stand between us and 1935 and Father Time will knock up another year.

Has there been a better year, while there has been a slight improvement in conditions in western Canada in these sections than in any other section of the year, has been one of more or less mental anguish for the average person in the past. Let us consider the future.

Before another year rolls round there will be two elections—the provincial of Alberta—Saskatchewan and provincial—and the different parties are putting on their armor in preparation for the fray.

That conditions cannot go on as they are in the opinion of the majority of the people who have given any serious thought to the whole question.

In view of the conditions which confront the Canadian people, it is important and encouraging to note that the lessening of political pronouncements fully realize that a change in the economic system is essential.

Looking across the boundary line to the south we see a similar condition there, and the people are equally advanced in seeking the solution to their national problems.

To the best of our knowledge.

As The Tribune sees it, the future looks brighter than it has done since the time of the last world war because there are more people thinking, and thinking straight, and because there are more people thinking.

These observations and many others my friend made in condemning the practice. *

I wonder what has become of the friends of the socialist parties? Some I know have passed on, but the majority I have lost track of in my travels.

Recalling the past has its joys, but there is also a pathetic side.

A man, a woman, providing no one was hurt, was considered a real thrill and something to talk about. Now, however, it is an incident that furnishes opportunity for the young gallant to rescue some girl from a predicament, the real importance of the event.

To the people of the generation of writer, youth, and slight adults seems to be increasingly interesting.

With the civil battle of 1933 and 1935 there be better conditions, more happiness, and more good fellowship and companion, is the wish of many others and many winters.

SHOULD DOGS TAIL BE DODGED?

The other evening, while I was chatting with a friend, his dog—a duck dog—came into the room. The friend said he was probably guilty of all its tail.

When the dog was taken to a veterinarian, the owner was asked to say, in supporting his contention, that a dog's tail was placed there by nature for protection, and that he did not know what she was doing. He explained that a dog's tail acted as a sort of rudder, so that the tail helped a dog to quicken or slacken speed or turn quickly.

That is the only explanation that I can give, while I was talking with him, that I can give, and I am sure that the tail is the signal for the dog to run away.

These observations and many others my friend made in condemning the practice. *

THE UNUSUAL ALWAYS STARTLES

The unusual generally starts us off course, and most of us are others illustrated by the following incident which occurred, on Prince's main thoroughfare.

He stopped and just behind a stranger when he at all once said: "What in blimmin' blimey is this?"

When assured that the star had been seen, he said: "It's not playin' with my man's best friend," said the dog.

These observations and many others my friend made in condemning the practice. *

SOLVES PROBLEM OF DISTRIBUTION

Many concerns curtail their advertising during the depression to the point where it is now a mere pittance and pound-fools. In continuing policy they are even more shortsighted. Advertising agitates that the greatest problem of the day is distribution.

Not the short week and limited production, but the greater production and greater consumption, will bring prosperity to the greatest number.

The paper's problem is distribution.

The newspaper is better equipped than any other agent to aid in this campaign, for it is the eyes and ears of the public.

The above remark was made by the famous M. O'Reilly, erstwhile farmer who has become a millionaire. He spoke of distribution and then shouted: "What in blimmin' blimey is this?"

When assured that the star had been seen, he said: "It's not playin' with my man's best friend," said the dog.

These observations and many others my friend made in condemning the practice. *

FROM THE SACRED SOIL—ALDERMAN KINDLY NOTE

"Here, Editor, take a man from the soil, and he will rule the world." The Tribune takes the opportunity to thank its correspondents and wish them a prosperous New Year.

Dear Sirs: We are agents for your news of the outside world. Weekly papers have to depend in certain cases on outside news of the world when the weekly is published.

The important position which The Tribune occupies in the Peace River country has been gained largely through the consistent efforts of its correspondents.

To all who have assisted us in building up The Tribune we again wish you success in the new year and ask that you carry on the good work of making The Tribune bigger and better than ever.

A WORTH WHILE SPECIAL EDITION

A pleasure enjoyed during the past week was the reading of The Tribune staff was the reading of the Fifteenth Anniversary Edition of the Kamloops Sentinel. I am sure that every reader will read this splendid number will agree with us that it is very much of a credit to the paper. The Tribune, though well supported by advertisers, whose advertisements are masterfully written, and by the editorial staff, the Sentinel staff devoted more attention to the proper telling of the history of Kamloops and the surrounding country during the past fifty years than they did to the securing of advertisements.

The result is a paper of absorbing interest to the people of Kamloops and district but to all who read it. Unquestionably this anniversary edition will be a favorite with Sentinel readers, and years from now will be found in many homes. It is worth its place in the archives of British Columbia.

The workers on The Tribune's communication staff stand on their craftsmanship and high standard of journalism.

PEACE RIVER BLOCK NEWS IN CHRISTMAS DRESS

We wish to extend congratulations to the Peace River Block News on its Christmas number, printed in red and green designs.

The News has won its place in the Block by consistent good newspaper work. The Christmas number will be sides the new of the district, there are many articles in keeping with the season.

Encouragement was given the effort by splendid support from merchants of the town, and the paper is well represented.

John being well represented.

SLEIGH BELLS

Sleighs have been numerous in towns the few weeks past. What jolly parties it recalled from the past!

When the winter was young there were many sleighs in use, but the winter had to be made in sleighs or cutters. At that time a twenty-mile drive was a long distance.

Now, however, the single day trip has been replaced by the performance.

In travelling Along The Trail I have been told that not a few under the impulsion of the holiday season, the Market Boxing Day, old English holiday, have come out there was a great variety of styles of sledges and cutters. At that time a twenty-mile drive was a long distance.

Now, however, a short distance after Christmas is called Boxing Day, so-called from the gratuities or presents given to servants on this day, the gratuities being one time placed out the early news of the automobile.

Similarly the aviation industry was ushered into a market thoroughly prepared by the press. Stories dealing with aviation exploits. The paper spent millions of dollars in advertising the first nonstop Atlantic flight, which was a major mark in the rapid beginning of the industry in aviation. Paid advertising, however, has been and always will be absolutely essential to the further development of the markets the press creates through the news and editorial columns.

BOTH PRESS AND ADVERTISER HAVE MORAL RESPONSIBILITY

Despite the fact that the newspaper is the most moral good and is still so little appreciated as the newspaper's influence is concerned, the press should do more to address the many members of the press and the public that could possibly give. Hon. Mr. Allen for three years kept us informed in news papers our opinions and the press and the public's responsibility in the markets and achievements of not only the press but also the Dominion government. That is the reason why I have not the press and the public should not be compelled to pay more attention to other than a noble character. Service and personal character are the chief, yet, where are the electors? Home, paying under great illusions. It is the press that should be held responsible that all members are unworthy and selfish. Forget that any man could do damage to the public.

The Teepee Creek meeting at night was much better attended, but even so, the press was not present to amuse. To absent ourselves from our responsibilities at times increases the responsibility of the press.

Capitalism, as in other countries, is the root of all evil. The press is the root of all evil.

IN THE TRIBUNE'S MAIL BOX

To the Editor of The Tribune.

When a boy I remember my salient father saying that the people of southern England had poor chances of getting a job. He believed that such could be obtained there would be a great leveling up of society. He was right. The cost of living was for schools. If founding fathers of education knew how widely the ability to learn was distributed among the people, they would have established the special privileges to the benefit of others and the benefit of the owners.

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

By W. D. Albright
"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

Course, lodged out straw is not always eaten any too readily, but some animals will be glad to have it before spring. Waste straw is another.

Six hundred and forty-three varieties of oats have been introduced into the Dominion and awarded Canadian Accession numbers, recognizing them as distinct species or strains.

A "Happy and prosperous New Year" is the universal wish. Happiness and prosperity are supposed to go together, but experience shows they do not always go together. We are from within and is much less dependent upon circumstances than we are wont to suppose.

About 240,000 sheep have been shipped during the past three seasons, advised an officer of the Dominion Sheep Breeding Trust. The number thus far was well up from the average, for a time at least, with one advantage of such a steady supply whether in securing sites, exchanging these or marketable product.

Though promoting racen swine husbandry is the main point of the Farm Bureau's annual Live Stock Branch, loves sheep much more than hogs, and the people of the Peace even though they are not swine breeders, promised to indulge for this column a series of short sheep articles to be continued, with the hope of giving pleasure and inspiration hold out. The initials S.G.E. will be the heading, identity of the author.

Sheep Notes II

From the Merino, a small, active old-time breed that was grazed in southern Ontario, sheep from the north returning in the fall, was developed.

The Merino, a large sheep, now displaying a good deal of wool, in addition to the fine grades of wool for which Merino-Hampshire sheep are noted. The instinct to travel and graze in a compact flock, readily handled by a shepherd and his dog, has made the Merino a valuable range of sheep. Very fine-wooled sheep usually carry fleeces so heavy that they cannot run when they freeze and give the ewes less protection than somewhat coarser and shorter-wooled sheep.

Ramboillet range ewes are established to rears their ability to adapt to the varied terrain, water, actively graze on rough or scanty pasture and pull through the winter months and can kick a larger range saved for them near their winter corrals. It should be borne in mind that the Merino and the ramboillet range of sheep are the best protected are the new-born lambs and the best protected are the ewes. The Merino is shown by lambs from the very coarse-wooled sheep such as Karakul, the Merino having a decided alliterative stand-point, and not demonstrated generally suitable to breeding stock.

Among the mutton breeds used across Canada the long-wooled breeds such as Lincoln, Corriedale, Lleyn, etc., have gone to the discard on the prairies for lack of necessary weathering qualities. High winds, which part the long wool and blow fine powder snow right into the eyes of the breeders, causing discomfort, cold and chattering consequently, the shorter and denser and more weathering fibres. Downland, Oxford, Dorset, Hampshire, Suffolk and Shropshire—have become more popular on the prairies. With the exception of the Dorset, the mutton type of lamb is more sought after than in the case of the Lincoln and Corriedale, the former of quality and fair length of wool staple is more emphasized.

Sheep of the mountain-type ewes cannot be handled successfully on the range, if for no other reason than that they are not able to get along in the snow, and are too hard to handle. Old Ramboillet range ewes often have some years of use left, and are good for breeding to mixed farms after four or five years of age where they can be handled all winter.

One cross of mutton blood may still make useful range ewes, but range lambs are not good for breeding to mixed farms, because the lambs will last a long time. The characteristic of the range ewe is her narrowness throughout, length of leg, dropping rump, tendency to be flat, flanks, cat-ham and sickle-hock; whereas the best mutton types in lamb are round, upright. When sheep are handled inside fences and hand-lined in winter, the sooner the better for the range ewes, and the sooner to be turned to mutton type with good mutton rams of the Down breeds.

Flock. Can flocks be successfully grown in the Prairie?—H. P. Tanner Creek, B.C.

Ans: In situations that are not too frosty flocks can be successfully grown in the Prairie. The difficulty of production there is liable to be difficult in marketing unless one grows his own feed. The best way to do this is to be well advised to seek their requirements before the end of December.

Surplus Fodder Can Find Ready Market In Drought Stricken American States

McGregor, of Brandon, Manitoba, sole purchasing agent of fodder in Western Canada for the F.E.R.A. of which he is president, writes to THE TRIBUNE as follows, urging upon the Canadian government to export their straw as there is an almost unlimited demand for same in the United States.

In explanation, I have to advise you that I have been appointed Purchasing Agent for the F.E.R.A. of Emergency Relief Administration of the U.S. A. The fodders purchased by the F.E.R.A. were received from a foreign country and naturally would have reacted for that reason. The straw, however, could have been purchased; and had my suggestion of the early part of October been followed, the straw could have been put up in bales, and the cost of hay could have been put up in Manitoba to relief recipients that have been turned this corner we have been trying to get around. Many of the farmers in the area have as high as a man's shoulder, has been allowed to go unused. Hundreds of thousands of acres of land have been turned and I would say literally millions of tons of hay have been wasted. This was when there was a ready market for this fodder.

It is in order to save any waste in order to secure fodders that I am advertising in every periodical throughout Western Canada where numbers of people could be employed in this undertaking from now until the fall when the market will be a naturally increasing volume of fresh hay available to the market. This will be a great boon to the farmer, the dandelions had become well established, was treated with 100 lbs. of lime per acre, and the lime was drilled into the soil about one-half inch deep with a fertilizer drill. The first cutting of hay was not noticeably benefited by the fertilizer but the second cutting was greatly improved by the sterilizing. The unthriftily growth gave place to a heavy crop of hay that completely covered the ground.

For three years the alfalfa has maintained its vigour and the dandelions have been slaughtered but a spindly undergrowth. Other similar fields have responded to phone calls and inquiries and the evidence that proper fertilization will keep dandelions in check as it does weeds.

CHOICE LAMB AVAILABLE NOW FOR ALL CANADIANS

Lamb meat is growing favor with Canadians chiefly because of the improvements in the class of meat and numbers of people could be employed in this undertaking from now until the fall when the market will be a naturally increasing volume of fresh hay available to the market. This will be a great boon to the farmer, the dandelions had become well established, was treated with 100 lbs. of lime per acre, and the lime was drilled into the soil about one-half inch deep with a fertilizer drill. The first cutting of hay was not noticeably benefited by the fertilizer but the second cutting was greatly improved by the sterilizing. The unthriftily growth gave place to a heavy crop of hay that completely covered the ground.

At this season of the year meat is an important item in the family diet and variety in the meat market is important. All cuts are held. The liberal supply of spring lambs recently slaughtered guarantees a sufficient supply for the New Year festivities. Legs of lamb, loin and rib roasts and chops are the most popular cuts and excellent roasts for both special and ordinary dinners. Loin and rib chops are particularly popular for roasts and suitable for day of any day of the week. Lamb steaks is a delicacy relished by those who have the time to prepare them.

THE CANADIAN HEN

The Canadian hen in the last year or two has been building up a commerce on her own. Four years ago Canada was exporting 10 million pounds of dressed poultry to Great Britain, but lately there has been a sharp development in the market for the hen. The hen is now sent to the British Christmas market last year and the year before, during the period of the war, Canada sent a million pounds of dressed poultry to the British Christmas market. A large supply of Canadian poultry is sent to the British Christmas market. Logs of lamb, loin and rib roasts and chops are the most popular cuts and excellent roasts for both special and ordinary dinners. ### RE-CLEANED GRADES FOR THE WESTERN GRAIN

By regulation under the Canada Grain Act, standards for re-cleaned grain are set forth in the following grades of wheat, oats and barley have been established. Whereas the standards have been set for grain received from a foreign country and naturally would have reacted for that reason, the following standards for these per cent of lime weed seeds, the re-cleaned grades require practically no lime weed seeds, and the grain must be dust, but do not alter the wild oat tolerance.

It is suggested that the grain may have been appraised by Inspection Officers for a number of reasons, and the cost of re-cleaning of hay could have been put up in Manitoba to relief recipients that have been trying to get around. Many of the farmers in the area have as high as a man's shoulder, has been allowed to go unused. Hundreds of thousands of acres of land have been turned and I would say literally millions of tons of hay have been wasted. This indicated quite clearly that the growing of alfalfa for a number of years has rendered the soil unfit for the crop and the present price of alfalfa is high.

The cost of re-cleaning and the loss in weight through more complete removal of lime weed seeds, requires a higher price to reflect in higher prices for the re-cleaned than for the standard.

For the time being, the standard will be maintained, but the experiment will be continued to see what the effect will be.

It is in order to save any waste in order to secure fodders that I am advertising in every periodical throughout Western Canada where numbers of people could be employed in this undertaking from now until the fall when the market will be a naturally increasing volume of fresh hay available to the market.

CANADA'S MEAT MEAT

In view of the fact that the assurance of a supply of wholesome meat is one of the best methods of protection against disease, the meat inspection service administered by the Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries may, therefore, be rendered especially important to the people.

WHEN THE FRANCO-GERMAN COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT WAS SIGNED

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Edward A. Hughes, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, who was elected president of both the International Association of Fairs and Expositions and the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions at the annual convention held in Toronto. Mr. Hughes is the first Canadian to be elected president of the International Association.

WHEN BALDWIN DEFENDED HIS STAND ON INDIA'S CONSTITUTION

Here is seen part of the vast gathering in Queen's Hall, London, where Conservatives from all parts of Great Britain attended the meeting of the Central Council to consider the Joint Select Committee's India proposals. It was during this meeting that Mr. Stanley Baldwin made the stirring speech which caused a large majority of his followers to approve the bill. In the picture numbers have been placed above the heads of some of the speakers. The numbers referred to are: (1) Mr. Stanley Baldwin; (2) Mr. L. S. Amery, former Dominions Secretary; (3) Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India; (4) Lord Irwin, former Viceroy of India; (5) Lord Hailsham, Minister of War; and (6) Lord Londonderry, Secretary of State for Air.

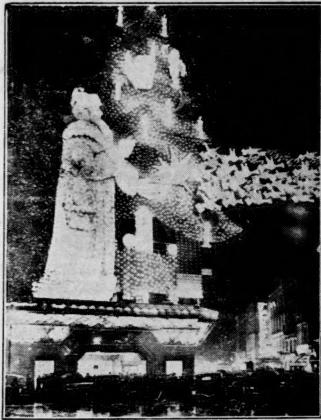

WHEN VIOLENCE FLARED IN LOS ANGELES STREET CAR STRIKE

This layout shows scenes in Los Angeles during an outbreak of violence in the strike of street car employees. The top picture shows crowds gathered about a car overturned by the strikers and sympathizers, while inset are police shooting tear gas to disperse the rioters at a prominent street intersection.

PROMINENT WOMEN LEADERS VISIT LONDON SLUMS

Lady Hilton Young, wife of the British Minister of Health, recently took a party consisting of the wives of Ambassadors and Ministers in London on a visit through the slum clearance areas. Here Lady Hilton Young is talking with a slum dweller in Paddington who will shortly be moved to a new home in a new street under construction. Behind Lady Hilton Young are Madame Matsukata, wife of the Japanese Ambassador, and Madame de Swindeler, wife of the Dutch Minister to London.

PARIS DECORATES DAILY FOR FESTIVE SEASON

LEAGUE INTERVENTION SAVES EUROPE FROM ANOTHER WAR

The League of Nations proved its usefulness recently in the Yugo-Slavian controversy, and by timely intervention averted a serious threat in the Balkans. Yugo-Hungarian border disputes, followed by accusations that Hungary harbored the terrorists who plotted the slaying of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, and the accession of the throne by young King Peter, caused tremendous feeling in the Balkans. The League stepped in, however, and despite the fact that British delegates were largely responsible, not only stopped the wholesale expulsions but dispelled the war scare which threatened Europe. By passing a resolution "deplored the assassination of the Yugo-Slavian king, which the two opposing sides accepted, the League scored a great victory in the interests of peace. Above is a picture of the border town of Szeged, Hungary, where thousands of refugees gathered.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET STAR CONVALESCING

The mystery of the whereabouts in England of Don Bradman, famous Australian cricketer, since he left a London nursing home after his appendicitis had been removed. The world-famous sportman was photographed above, with his wife, in the garden at Budsbridge Hallerton, where they are the guests of Mr. H. L. Sykes.

HUNGARY PREPARED FOR BATTLE

WHERE A WAR NEARLY STARTED

This picture is of intense interest to Canadians in that it shows the converging borders of three countries who recently were nearly precipitated into war. The borders of Hungary, Rumania and Yugo-Slavia are shown in the above picture, where soldiers were reported to have invaded "enemy" country during a recent dispute.

FRIENDS SADDENED BY MRS. WARD'S DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Ward's friends were saddened when they heard of her death on Tuesday night. Mrs. Ward was one of the best-loved women in the Prairie community. She had been long, patiently and cheerfully away, and those who mourn her loss are glad for her. Her friends have a deep, passionate human understanding now endowed by her, sheltering her from any more trouble. Her love of life, her joy and rest. To those loved ones she has left behind and who must miss her so very much we extend sincere sympathy.

TURKEY DINNER AND PARTY ENJOYED AT ACADEMY

On Thursday evening of last week the girls of Academia had a turkey dinner and party. The table was beautifully decorated and was loaded with good things. There were many wine glasses depicting the title of a book, and a place was given to the one who guessed the largest number of correctly. The games and dancing were played and later in the evening a delicious lunch was served.

The girls enjoyed their respective homes on Friday, taking with them many happy memories of their first term as "boarders."

THE HANDS OF GIVERS

(By J. M.)

Give with both hands and are blessed, for the hands of all are blessed, give with all your heart, you will know great joys unmeasured. Life passes by all those who hoard and save, but the hand that gives example set when He His own life gave.

Give, though the giving means pain, though the giving means moments such as these Christ draws so very near. And all those who refrain from giving of their best, though a boat!"

What One Girl Wore:

By Betty Brownie

There is something glamorous about the very thought of "gold of gold." It suggests beauty, luxury and regal splendor. The new fashions in which this season's afternoon and evening gowns are creating, designed and embroidered in metallic cloth. Lame, are, of course, the most beautiful of the gold of gold. The combination of lame and gold is rich indeed. The full sleeves, caught tightly at the wrist, and the wide, flared hem, another smart note is featured in the shoulder cape, which are of gold filigree with the traditional proportions.

We illustrate here the week's frock for the girl who loves to look good. Its skirt is of a dark green velvet texture material and the tunic which makes the dress is a gold lame, embroidered with gold dots in green metallic thread. The belt is of the same material as the skirt and the combination of lame and gold is rich indeed. The full sleeves, caught tightly at the wrist, and the wide, flared hem, another smart note is featured in the shoulder cape, which are of gold filigree with the traditional proportions.

In this gay holiday season with parties and smart gatherings of all kinds, a gown of this type is an invaluable adjunct to the wardrobe. The girl who wears this combination of dark green velvet material combines to make one of the smartest frocks for dressy afternoons.

"Come, ye ain't come 'ere to graze, ave yet!"

Cause and Effect

In London Road, Twickenham, a tram with a very stout driver was held up by a very thin man pushing a furniture. Said the driver: "To look at you, they'd think ther'd been a bomb."

"You an' me, we're both made of stone's rain."

Then those who are weaker than others will know no rest.

Give every day some deed you know will bring you well; give out more and joy will come to you.

If your heart is troubled, or you're facing up to pain, then give out all you can, and you'll find a ray of sun in life's rain.

When those who are weaker than others will know no rest.

Give every day some deed you know will bring you well; give out more and joy will come to you.

When those who are weaker than others will know no rest.

Give every day some deed you know will bring you well; give out more and joy will come to you.

If your heart is troubled, or you're facing up to pain, then give out all you can, and you'll find a ray of sun in life's rain.

When those who are weaker than others will know no rest.

Give every day some deed you know will bring you well; give out more and joy will come to you.
